

TRAVEL INSURANCE FOR PEOPLE WITH CHRONIC ILLNESS

One of the biggest problems people face with Chronic Illness is whether they can get travel insurance.

If you want to travel overseas, travel insurance to cover medical expenses is really important. But can you get it? In most cases, yes.

Where to get travel insurance

Travel insurance is usually purchased via a travel agent or directly online. You can also get it via some credit cards, health insurers, superannuation funds or insurance brokers.

You would usually get a glossy brochure or a Product Disclosure Statement which sets out all the terms and conditions. They can be 20 or 30 pages long and full of fine print.

What is covered?

You will be covered for non-medical losses such as loss of luggage, theft and some cancellations. You will also be covered for overseas medical and hospital expenses for injuries you suffer on your trip without having to fill in a Health Questionnaire to get the cover.

Pre-Existing Conditions

You won't automatically be covered for medical and hospital expenses that are related to pre-existing injuries or illnesses.

"Pre-Existing Conditions", as they are usually called in insurance policies, are normally defined as injuries or illnesses that you had medical treatment for, or have taken medications for in a set period of time before the policy started (eg; 21 or 60 days, 6 months or 12 months) or which are "chronic" or "ongoing" when the policy started.

Some travel insurance policies do cover specified Pre-Existing Conditions such as mild asthma, some non-malignant cancers and high cholesterol

Cover for Pre-Existing Conditions

To get cover for your Pre-Existing Condition, you will have to fill in a health questionnaire spelling out your illness and your ability to travel

You will also have to get a pro-forma report from your doctor setting out the nature and extent of your illness, your ability to travel and whether he/she thinks that you are at a significant risk of needing medical treatment during your trip or not.

Send the forms to the insurance company at least two months before you are due to travel to give them time for a decision and a possible appeal.

For further information, contact us today:

1800 196 050 (business hours)
mauriceblackburn.com.au/superannuation

Appeals

If you are refused cover for a Pre-Existing Condition, or if you get cover but a claim is rejected you can lodge an Internal Dispute resolution complaint with the insurer.

It is important to make written submissions with your complaint plus get the right medical reports.

The insurer has 45 days to make a decision on the complaint.

If the complaint is still rejected or they don't make a decision in time, you can appeal to the Financial Ombudsman service or go to Court.

Other things to consider if you cannot get cover

It is important to carefully consider the risks involved if you plan to travel without cover. Something to keep in mind is Australia's Reciprocal Health Care Agreements with a number of other countries. More information, including a list of these countries can be found on the Department of Human Services Website

HELP

To get help if you have been refused travel insurance cover, or with a travel insurance claim, call Maurice Blackburn on 1800 196 050 for free advice.

Steps to get travel insurance for people with a chronic illness

- ✓ Check if your policy actually covers your Pre-Existing Condition.
- ✓ If not, fill in the Health Questionnaire.
- ✓ Get a certificate from your doctor that you are fit to travel.
- ✓ Lodge the documents with the insurer at least two months before you travel.
- ✓ If not covered or if an insurance claim is rejected, consider appealing.
- ✓ Get advice.

For further information, contact us today:

1800 196 050 (business hours)
mauriceblackburn.com.au/superannuation